She has worked as a freelance for BBC Radio 4 and taught print and broadcast journalism at the University of Sheffield. Ash, Peter and their team at Spotlight Studios recognise the value of a strong digital partner that allows a company's online activity to work harder for them. Having a website built is not only about the end result but the road taken to get there - this should be an enjoyable experience and our goal is to make it just that. We offer the complete online solution for your websites, domains and hosting, alongside a feature-packed client portal through which you can manage your project, services, account preferences, and support all from one location.
